What is Social Work?

Social work is a profession concerned with helping individuals, families, groups and communities to enhance their individual and collective well-being. It aims to help people develop their skills and their ability to use their own resources and those of the community to resolve problems.

Social work is concerned with individual and personal problems but also with broader social issues such as poverty, discrimination, marginalization and oppression.

What is Social Work?

Human rights and social justice are the philosophical underpinnings of social work practice.

The uniqueness of social work practice is in the blend of particular values, knowledge and skills, including the use of relationship as the basis of all interventions, the pursuit of social justice, and respect for the client's choice and involvement.

- References
 - TWO Non-Academic References

Personal Profile

Work Experience

- Paid or unpaid work.
- Co-ops and practica undertaken for educational purposes would be considered unpaid work. This includes volunteer hours for high school credit.
- Caregiving responsibilities for family members could also be considered unpaid work.

Personal Profile: Volunteer Experience

- Working directly with people is more heavily weighted than volunteer work of a more administrative nature.
- Experience with more than one population will be an asset.
- Currently there is not a minimum number of required volunteer hours.

Personal Profile: Diversity Experience

- Experiences with marginalized, oppressed, and/or diverse populations
- May be personal or from a work and/or volunteer experience already noted above.
- Examples: experience with visible minorities, ethno-specific clubs or programs, persons with physical or mental health challenges, camps or services for disadvantaged children, women and children who have experienced violence or abuse, the elderly, indigenous peoples, newcomers to Canada, having lived in another and/or developing country, or other related activities

References

- Two non-academic references are required.
- From people who can make statements about your personal qualifications for entry into undergraduate social work education.
- If possible, both should be from a work and/or volunteer experience, preferably in the social services.
- They should be able to provide responses to the categories noted on the reference form.

Indigenous Applicants

The School of Social Work celebrates the gifts that Indigenous students bring to post-secondary education. We also recognize the discrimination and systemic barriers that indigenous learners have faced and continue to face in the pursuit of education. In accordance with the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous People and Calls to Action from the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, the School has designated two places in its BSW program for Indigenous learners who meet all admission requirements for the program.

French Speaking Applicants

- The School of Social Work recognizes the two official languages of Canada and has designated 1 place in its BSW program for French Language learners who meet all admission requirements for the program.
- If you would like to be considered for this position, please indicate in your application. On your personal profile, please discuss how the French language has influenced your decision to pursue a career in social work or how it would benefit a career in social work.
